					Parent Engagement
					Best Things

More projects-based learning, real world application

More interaction needed between administration/board with students. Students don't care what their parents think or what teachers think

If we're giving schools A-F grades, what should be characteristics?

Attendance-if a kid misses class they are missing every opportunity to learn something. If the students aren't there then it shows something

Teachers motivating kids coming to class- if teacher isn't engaging you, then why should a student be there; kids just don't know why

Peer review of teachers. Teachers are a really important part, but you can't really judge the teacher in teaching style. Some teachers teachers judging teachers

Personal achievements and work ethics - if you can't motivate yourself, who can motivate you?

Diversity should be incorporated into the grade and more bilingual opportunities available

Percentages of students having classes in college while still in high school - dual credit

GPA is the average of everything; GPA should be the school's grade

Upperclassmen leadership for freshmen. At Albuquerque High, freshman fights happened, but no upperclassmen knew about it until Perception that APS schools are not safe - it's the way the media presents school safety. If you only ever hear about the negative, then

Volcano Vista was reported to be racist, but we're not racist; you only hear about the bad stuff

I feel really safe at Sandia because Sandia is very accepting of everybody. If you could spread that feeling of acceptance that would

Bad media coverage has a big impact on students
