

April 8th

Creating Resiliency Through Community

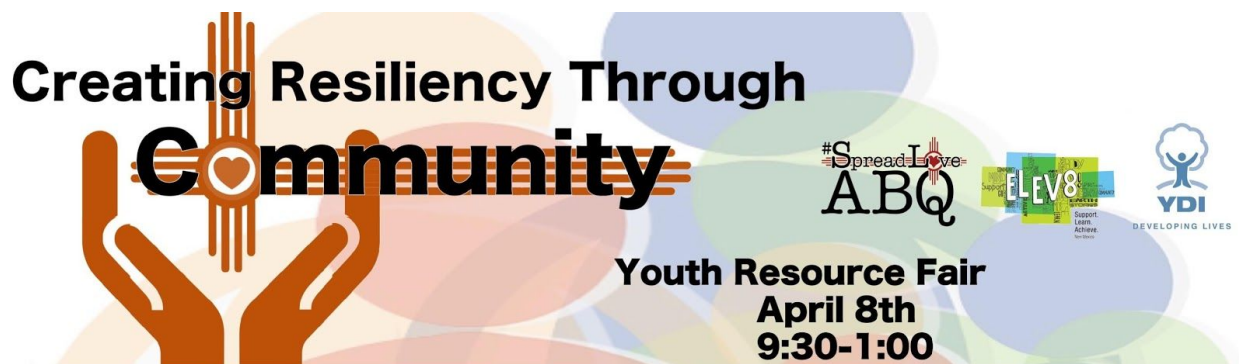

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact:

Van Overton, Executive Director, SpreadLoveABQ

505.688.7869 cell

van@spreadloveabq.org

SpreadLoveABQ is proud to present the First Annual Creating Resiliency Through Community event!

Albuquerque, NM (March 10, 2017) - On Saturday morning, April 8th, at Wilson Community Middle School, several organizations will come together to show our community's youth what they have to offer. In addition to the resource fair, we will also feature activities for kids and families like Garden-in-a-bottle and several arts activities to engage and entertain. Throughout the event we will offer music, snacks, drinks, and giveaways.

It is important for families to know that there are groups of people that want to help. From academics to creative arts there is support for the youngsters in our neighborhoods, and we want to let them all know!

April 8th

Creating Resiliency Through Community

About SpreadLoveABQ

We are an organization that makes it our mission to discover and develop our community's potential to support Albuquerque's youth creatively, financially, and collaboratively!

We believe that every child is talented with the potential for success. We aim to build a better community where children feel safe, nurtured and loved, allowing them to thrive. We believe that lack of safety, resources, or community support should never be a factor in limiting a child's success. We will help facilitate collaboration, provide financial support, and creatively find solutions to overcoming barriers for youth organizations whose missions center on our most precious commodity, the Children of Albuquerque.